Study Plan

Why Study at Whitecliffe University of Applied Sciences?

Whitecliffe offers a state-recognized, globally accredited education in the heart of Europe. With an international campus, English-taught programs, and strong industry connections, students gain practical experience in a personalized learning environment.

Small classes, innovative teaching, and strong career outcomes prepare graduates for successful global careers.

Building on Interdisciplinary Foundations

The MA Interior Design at Whitecliffe University of Applied Sciences welcomes graduates from architecture, spatial design, and related fields. The program deepens interior design expertise, combining technical skills and theoretical understanding across scales and contexts. Graduates are prepared for professional practice in diverse local and global interior design settings.

Teaching Methods

At Whitecliffe University of Applied Sciences, learning is student-centered and hands-on, with a focus on project-based work that promotes professional growth and teamwork.

MA students develop independence as design professionals under guidance from internationally experienced faculty. Taught in English, the program offers a truly global academic experience through a diverse student body, international faculty, and the school's worldwide network.

Professional Practice

Graduates of the MA Interior Design at Whitecliffe are prepared for careers in interior architecture and design offices, architecture firms, agencies, cultural institutions, or independent practice. Combining practical and theoretical knowledge, the program equips students to tackle evolving professional challenges with creativity, critical awareness, and responsibility.
